ALBERTO MARSICO

Alberto Marsico

ALBERTO MARSICO is one of the most renowned European organ players, shared the stage, among others, with Kenny Burrell, Jimmy Witherspoon, Alvin Queen, Jimmy Cobb, Joey DeFrancesco, Bobby Durham and Jesse Davis.

Brother Jack McDuff recorded one of his songs, "Jack-Pot", in 1995.

Since then he toured all over the world (Los Angeles, San Francisco, Bangkok, Shanghai, Mosca, Sydney, Singapore, Oslo, Tokyo, Berlino, Madrid, Parigi, Amsterdam, Hong Kong e Bruxelles) .

He recorded two albums in the U.S. and held workshops in the most important Conservatories in Europe.

He recorded six solo albums and more than 50 cd's in collaboration with other artists.

Alberto Marsico is a fantastic jazz organist, but here you hear him in another element, a rockish,bluesy kind of stuff, which I love a lot, and I've never heard anybody do it better than Alberto"

Joey DeFrancesco, liner notes of "Soundsville Blues for Alice in Wonderland", 2007*

As if he invented the genre, Alberto Marsico, with Jack Mc Duff's and Jimmy Smith's intimations, reminds us how the blues should be played and digested...

Jimmy Woode, liner notes of "Spirit of the Moment", 1999*
